

November is bringing exciting transformations, special milestones, and a sale you won't want to miss! 🤍

This month, we're sharing a closer look at a liposuction transformation, celebrating our latest Best of the Best wins, and giving you a first look at our Black Friday Sale, starting November 23rd.

From patient results to exclusive offers on your favorite skincare brands, there's plenty to explore. Keep reading for all the details! 🖤

Defining the results of my patient's hard work!

This active patient was already putting in the effort through diet and exercise, but stubborn pockets of fat remained despite her healthy lifestyle. I performed liposuction of the abdomen, hips, flanks, and back to refine her contours and highlight the results of her hard work.

Liposuction is best suited for patients who are at a stable weight and looking to address stubborn fat that doesn't respond to diet and exercise. Rather than a weight-loss procedure, it is designed to sculpt and refine the body's natural contours.

For the right candidate, liposuction can help bridge the gap between the work they put in and the silhouette they've been working toward!
